My own understanding is that the God I worship and believe in might have problems with my personal vision for what needs to be done to these enemies.

The cheaper the labor the better

After american wages increase hire immigrants, then hire cheaper immigrants, then hire slaves (communism).

And the government will enrich themselves by printing money decreasing the value that the population holds.

So you all better hold inflation proof assets.

Socialism leads to communism. Right now we have insane amounts of socialism going on. Entire businesses that should have failed have been bailed out by the government then we wrote law upon law so only the largest businesses can survive while the government will give money to prop those businesses up.

Capitalism has ways to purge large inefficient businesses naturally through competition. The government prevents these then prevents small businesses from existing to replace those large businesses that have sold out.

Capitalism always works but if you put a marble on a flat table then tilt it right the marble will go right.

Capitalism allows us to start businesses to compete with China. The government then throws in 10,000 pages of bullshit regulations and suddenly it's hard for new businesses to form or we become uncompetitive. Or the government allows us to import large quantities of goods from China, who do not have to compete under the same regulations, while not using tariffs to level the table.

Capitalism is working but the table has been rigged and our politicians see no problems because they keep winning. So the marble keeps going to the right and no one tries to level the table

Communism is a function of government.

What you're describing isn't communism.

Antitrust laws are a function of government, that prevents what you're describing. Our government is broken.

The merger of corporations and government is fascism. We have regulatory capture instead. As much as I hate to admit it, antifa would have valid concerns if this is what they were focused on. Which of course it's not.

For that matter blm antifa and us all have a common enemy, and should be united against it. Same before blm started and it was occupy wall street, the tea party didn't find the common ground. One group was concerned with big corporations having too much power, the other with big government.

Jimmy Carter told us long ago the US is an oligarchy.

In a free market that wouldn't happen, there is a reason why Big corporations shill for more regulations and more taxes.

Because it kills competition, google can afford to pay exorbitant amounts of taxes and be massively regulated, a small business (threat) can't.

While I agree with your calm demeanor, I have to say that what's been occurring here is what normally occurs in places already in the middle of hot wars. The tearing down of statues, attacking people in the streets, erasing our history, etc., this is already civil war level activity.

I have a lot of friends who both grew up in the middle of and fought in such wars around the globe, and EVERY SINGLE ONE OF THEM says that by the time everyone else wakes up it's too late.

Taxation without representation since our votes in this election and any future election are meaningless if we don't fight these traitors right now.

The spending bill was a slap in the face. They may as well have said "why don't you smelly, deplorable, bitter-clingers in flyover country hurry up and OD on Chinese fentanyl while we make it rain around the world with your money, suckers"

That one hit close to home. I know a lot of people under the stranglehold of fentanyl. The word "pharmacy" is actually derived from the Greek word for witchcraft. Fentanyl is a wonder drug for those in serious constant pain.. It was never meant to be easily obtainable. It's crazy that it's almost impossible to get legitimate pain meds now, but you can get Chinese fentanyl in any city in America, inexpensively, with relative ease.

4 Remember it's not just flyover country, it slapped even far leftists in the face. There could be an uneasy alliance between us even, just like the Chinese nationalists and the communists when they fought imperial Japan. Except we have to make sure the communists are defeated instead of having them gain power

▼ In fact, being in Congress was originally a part time job. Politicians had their regular professions like doctoring or shop keeping and Congress would meet several times a year and had low pay. This was done by the Founders purposefully because they knew full time positions of power become corrupt eventually. Now we ha e professional politicians who lie and sell our America for a living.
